

WATCH: The Fleet Week Parade of Ships with Live Views from EarthCam

Join EarthCam for the Fleet Week parade of ships

5.21.14 at 8:19am by Robin Shannon

Join in the festivities as U.S. Navy and U.S. Coast Guard ships arrive in the New York Harbor for Fleet Week 2014 with live webcam views from EarthCam.

The parade of ships enters the New York Harbor from below the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge and makes its way around to Manhattan's west side. The event is free and open to the public and takes place today, May 21 from 8:00am to 11:00am

The screenshot shows the EarthCam website interface. At the top, there is the EarthCam logo and a search bar. Below the logo, the text "FLEET WEEK" is prominently displayed in red. The main content area features a large live video feed of a large grey ship, likely a U.S. Navy vessel, sailing in New York Harbor. The video player includes a timestamp "May 20, 2014 11:01am" and a temperature display of "64° a few clouds". Below the video feed, there is a "HALL OF FAME" section with five thumbnail images representing different camera views: HarborCam, Hudson River, LibertyCam, Hudson River, and Streaming. At the bottom, there is a small map and a text box titled "New York City, New York" providing information about the location and the event.