The former Beatle would have been 72 today, so why not take a trip to one of the band's landmarks via this live stream?

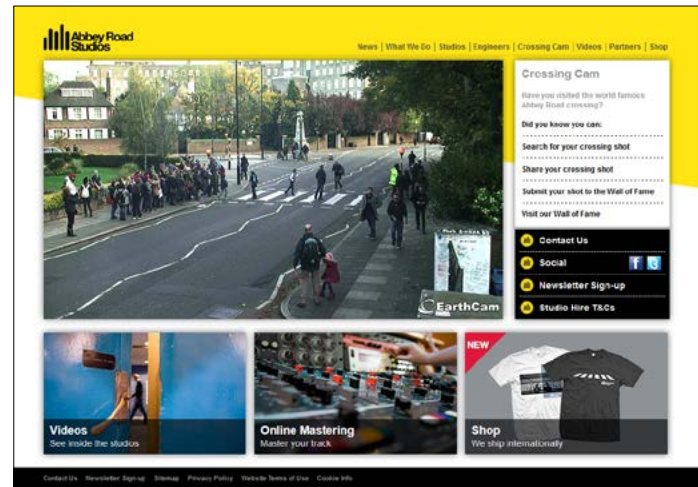

Today marks the birthday of the 'quiet Beatle', George Harrison, who will have his immense impact on music celebrated worldwide in connection with EarthCam.

Harrison would have celebrated his 72nd birthday today had he been alive, and EarthCam are teaming up with Abbey Road Studios in London to mark the occasion in a unique and memorable style.

Abbey Road - which served as the backdrop for one of the most iconic album covers of all-time when The Beatles posed walking over its pedestrian crossing - will be able to be viewed around the globe today, no matter what your location.

Spend the birthday of Harrison listening to your favourite Beatles songs and traveling to the London landmark, where EarthCam's Crossing Cam has been set up to transmit images from one of music's great tourist attractions.

You can transport yourself to Abbey Road with a computer, by clicking here , or download the EarthCam app via the iTunes Store .
