"Eyes on Hollywild" was launched today at 11 a.m. in partnership with EarthCam, the Animal Park's first web cam.

"Now people around the world will get a behind-the-scenes look at these amazing animals, from their home or schools right into the bear living room," said David R. Meeks, Hollywild's executive director. "It's an amazing way to connect our animals to the public."

EarthCam's live streaming webcam delivers close-up views of the newly renovated bear habitat at Hollywild. The rare adult Syrian Brown Bears, Giza and Ramses, rotate in and out of their shared exhibit. Viewers will also catch a glimpse of their 15-month-old triplet cubs, Amalia, Malica and Samra, born in January 2012.

Syriana Nyeff, a 3-month-old cub is not old enough to join the exhibit area with her sisters or parents.
