

One Last Bay Bridge Post: A Look at Six Years in a Few Minutes

A fast-forward look at a long-term project.

Posted by Jim Caroompas (Editor) , September 03, 2013 at 08:31 PM

The hoopla is over and the new Bay Bridge is up and running.

But there is one final clip that bears viewing before the bridge story turns into history.

A company called Earthcam took six years of time-lapse and real-time footage of the construction, and put together a composite video of the project that we must admit is pretty impressive.

So, one last time, here is the Bay Bridge construction project as we have all seen it, in a nice four-minute slice of life.

