

Warhol Museum broadcast live footage from his grave (VIDEO)

06/08/2013 - 11:25

Company "EarthCam" announced that will be broadcast live and developments in the church where he was baptized Warhol, and people will be able to send flowers and watch as it comes to the grave

Andy Warhol Museum broadcasts live footage from the tomb pop-art artist in Pittsburgh, to mark his 85th birthday.

Museum has announced that in collaboration with manufacturing webcam "EarthCam" went from broadcasting live events from the grave.

The project is called "Figment" (idea) by Vorholovoj statement that he wanted his tombstone to be unlabeled or just with the word "idea."

Warhol Museum announced that hundreds of people each year visit the artist's tomb, and many leave items of pop culture that can be found in his works, such as cans of "Campbell" soup.

Company "EarthCam" announced that will be broadcast live and developments in the church where he was baptized Warhol, and people will be able to send flowers and watch as it comes to the tomb.

Warhol, who was born on 6 August in 1928. years, died in 1987. year.

The recording can follow the link: <http://www.warhol.org/figment/>

Serbian article translated using Google Translate.

