Insta-build: George W. Bush Presidential Center two-year construction - in two-minute time lapse video

No time to monitor the dedication of the George W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum in Dallas on Thursday? There's a new two-minute video chronicling the entire two-year construction project, distilled from 20,000 hours of images snapped by a dozen high definition cameras at the site.

It's an upbeat collaboration between former first lady Laura Bush and EarthCam, which hand-edited the footage from images that began arriving in November, 2010.
