

Video: Time-lapse of Daytona International Speedway construction

By The Times-Union Mon, Jan 25, 2016

Daytona International Speedway

September 2013 - January 2016

From September 2013 through January 2016, NASCAR and racing fans have been able to keep track of DAYTONA Rising, which is the redesign of Daytona International Speedway, via EarthCam's construction cameras.

The entire construction process from groundbreaking to completion has been captured in a new time-lapse movie that compiles more than one million images from eight construction webcams and panoramic cameras.

And, in case you missed it, here is a replay from multiple angles of October's demolition of the 140 foot tall structural steel skybox at the speedway

The time-lapse video at the top of this story appears courtesy of EarthCam

EarthCam on YouTube